CURRICULUM VITAE

SYNOPSIS

My research specialization is social and moral psychology. I maintain an active research program in this area, and have to date published 22 papers, given over 60 presentations, and received over $500,000 in grants. My work has been published in top journals, including Psychological Science, Psychological Inquiry, Personality and Social Psychology Bulletin, and Cognition. My popular science writing and interviews have appeared in outlets including The New York Times, Scientific American, BBC World Service, and Nature Human Behavior. In 2019, my research lab was awarded the Canadian Foundation for Innovation John Evans Leaders Fund Infrastructure Grant. My doctorate (2015) is in Social Psychology and Social Neuroscience from Boston College, advised by Liane Young. After receiving my degree, I completed a postdoctoral fellowship at Harvard University's Psychology Department (2015-2017), with co-PIs Steven Pinker and Jesse Snedeker, on a project examining the psycholinguistics of morality, funded by the National Science Foundation.
